

Sanskritam is a well-formed, perfected and most ancient language. The earliest literature of the world is written in this language only. Though old, it is a highly technical, systematic, phonetically perfect and scientific language.

Sanskritam literature encompasses a rich tradition of Vedas, Upanishads, Poetry, drama as well as scientific, technical, musical medical, mathematical, philosophical, legal dharmic and other texts.

During the course of their study, students will be exposed to learning shravya(hearable) and drshya( seeable) types of kavyas. The grammar component aims at equipping the ardent students with necessary skill sets to understand the language all by themselves.

Research has time and again proven that learning this language improves brain functioning and academic performance. It is also the door way to know about India's rich culture and heritage. It is indeed aptly said:

भारतसंस्कृतिं यदि ज्ञातुं मनः तत्संस्कृतं सेव्यताम्।

Sanskrita studies offer a lot of potential to students. The professors of the department do encourage the students to choose this language for their studies.
